ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Born and raised in Houston, Texas, Drew Weitzel is a graduate of the George Washington University Law School and is proud to be back helping support his local Houston community.

Drew's work primarily involves advising property owner associations and their boards on all types of issues that arise in their daily operations, and providing novel solutions tailored to the association's needs. Having previously spent time representing various local municipal entities in the Houston area, Drew understands the variations that exist between each property owner association's material and financial circumstances, and strives to find ways to best achieve his clients' aims while protecting the interests of the community. Drew always works to ensure his work is efficient and cost-effective, while being comprehensive and goal-oriented.

When not serving his clients, Drew can usually be found with family and friends enjoying an afternoon game at Minute Maid Park or somewhere past a trailhead on a weekend hike.
